MYSTERY SOLVED

Well-to-do Man Arrested as a Burglar.

POLICE SURPRISED OVER THE DISCOVERY.

Superintendent of the Middletown, N. Y., Street Car System Proves a Common Thief.

MUCH STOLEN GOODS FOUND IN HIS HOME.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 24.—By the alleged confession of Chas. Boos, until a few days ago superintendent of the Walkhill Transit Company's lines in Orange county, a spectacular police mystery has been solved.

According to the police he admitted to them yesterday that he had robbed one of the largest department stores in the city besides several residences in the last few months.

Cries Police.

Boos jokingly reminded the police that he himself had raised the hue and cry one night a few weeks ago, when a burglar was chased out of the residence of F. P. S. Crane, a wealthy man. He said the police were close on him before he got out of the house and that he ran ahead of them shouting, "Stop thief. Catch that man."

This ruse worked so well that Boos resorted to it a few nights later when he had forced his way into the home of J. L. Pendleton, and from which he was frightened by an alarm.

Boos is regarded as a modern social highwayman. He drew a large salary as superintendent of the big transit corporation and lived in good style on one of the best streets of the city. He was popular in society and dressed in the latest fashion. He was apparently one of the busiest men in town, and he was an exemplary man of business.

Lived High.

A search of Boos' fine apartments revealed valuable plunder, for which the police had long been looking, and which, it is alleged, had been taken from department stores and private residences. Confronted with the goods Boos, it is said, confessed.

HOUSE ROBBED

SNEAK THIEF ENTERED THE ROOM OF YOUNG LADIES.

Two Purses, Fine Gold Watch, Gold Ring and $17 in Money Was Secured by Culprit.

On awakening yesterday morning Miss Louise Dietrich and Harriet D. Brady discovered that burglars had broken into their room the night before at the Sixth and Monroe residence retained by Mrs. Katie Craig for rooming purposes for her hotel overflow of boarders. The thief had come in at the window leading into their room which is upon the ground floor. It seemed that the culprit was after money and valuables alone, as he grabbed up the purses each lady had left lying on the dresser and decamped with same. In the pocketbook of Miss Brady there was some money and a gold ring, while the purse of the other contained a fine gold watch and coin. About $17 in cash altogether was gotten by the thief.

After confiscating the valuables the thief departed and left the window raised which was found standing up some distance when the occupants of the quarters awoke yesterday.

The matter was reported to the detectives who are now at work on the case.

Miss Dietrich is a teacher in the public schools, while Miss Brady is summer for the Miss Zula Cobb military establishment of Broadway between Fourth and Fifth streets.

New Orleans yesterday had but 63 cases of fever under treatment and it was announced that the coming week would doubtless see these all dismissed and the fever scourge over. Many more places yesterday raised their quarantines, this leaving but a few still holding out. Many infected points are entirely free of the fever.

Buried Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon at 7:30 o'clock the remains of the late Mr. B. F. Barrow were buried at Oak Grove cemetery, following funeral services held at the house.

COUNTY TRUSTEES

THE SUPERINTENDENT FINDS ONLY ABOUT HALF CHOSEN.

Professor Rudolph Takes Place of Miss Edna Barnett at Washington Building.

Supt. Billington, of the county public schools, has received reports from all the county districts and finds that not over half of them held elections for the purpose of selecting trustees for the respective districts. The voters of each district choose their own trustees by elections and as only about fifty per cent of them did this it leaves the superintendent to appoint the trustees for those not conducting the election. The election is always held the first Saturday in October, but the party chosen as trustee at that time does not assume the duties of his office until the first of the following July. This means that the superintendent will not have to name the trustees for those districts failing to elect until the middle of next year.

The last district heard from where the election was held is No. 20, that return coming in yesterday to the county superintendent and shows that W. H. Cunningham was chosen.

New Teacher Gotten.

Supt. Lieb, of the city schools yesterday procured the services of Prof. Kemmer Rudolph, of the Lone Oak section of the county, to fill the place made vacant in the sixth grade at the Washington building here in the city by the resignation of Miss Edna Barnett, two weeks ago. Prof. Rudolph is an able instructor and yesterday when he took charge of the room Prof. Everett returned to his own departmental work in the seventh and eighth grades at that building. Mr. Everett has been supervising the sixth grade since Miss Barnett resigned.

Fine Lecture.

Prof. Randle yesterday morning delivered a lecture to the high school pupils at the Washington building. It was an effort highly appreciated.

U. S. SENATOR TO BE TRIED.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The supreme court of the United States today decided that State Senator George E. Green, of New York, must come to Washington for trial on the charge of conspiring with George W. Beavers and others to defraud the government in the purchase of supplies for the postoffice department. The decision of the circuit court for the northern district of New York was confirmed.

YOUNG ATHLETES

A GYMNASIUM CLASS ORGANIZED LAST NIGHT AT Y. M. C. A.

Board of Directors for Association Will Hold Called Meeting Friday Evening.

The young men's gymnasium class for the Young Men's Christian Association was organized last evening at the building by General Secretary Blake Godfrey, and the athletic body starts off with ten enthusiasts who will meet Tuesday and Thursday evening of each week for their exercises. The secretary is being assisted in instructing the class by Messrs. Ben Mathis and Murray Campbell, two good gymnasts.

Mr. Godfrey and the others will shortly organize the gymnasium class to consist of the business men of the city, and arrange for them to hold their meetings every Friday and Monday afternoon from 5 until 6 o'clock. Quite a number of the business people of the city want to join the class and prospects are for a very large one.

Board Meets Friday.

Friday evening a called meeting of the board of directors will be held at the association, at which time the financial end of matters will be discussed, together with other business. The campaigners getting subscriptions for the budget for next year have done nothing this week on account of different business matters engaging their time.

Captain Joe Wood continues to improve at Riverside hospital and this morning at 3 o'clock was resting well. The doctors see nothing tending to develop complications, and have no fear for his condition.

RUSSIA'S DANGER

A Revolution Spreading in all Directions.

MANY DEMANDS ARE BEING MADE.

From All Sections and Classes for Reforms of Various Important Kinds.

COUNT WITTE COMES IN FOR MUCH DISLIKE.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—"While feeble, disunited and intriguing ministers are pursuing their own individual purposes the conflagration is spreading," said Privy Councillor Prince Obolensky this morning.

"Now the teamsters and the water works, postal and telegraph employees are joining the strike of the railroad men. The cities will soon be without food, fuel or water."

Many Demands.

"The various parties in the empire are seeking different ends," he continued. "The Jews want their rights, the Poles want independence, the Armenians want the Caucasus, the liberals want a constitution, the working men want higher wages, the fanatical revolutionists are after a social republic, all of them are acting together. They are perfectly organized and have plenty of money. Shiploads of ammunition have arrived from Finland. Believing that revolutionary excesses will scare the people back into zealous support of the czar, the police are not interfering."

Leaders Drive Them.

Prince Khilkoff, minister of public works and railways, said to the correspondent: "I am completely surprised at last Sunday's turn of events. All was quiet, when suddenly the employees of five railway systems went out on strike. The majority of the men are willing to work, but they are terrorized by the leaders, who have chosen the season when agricultural products are being shipped, causing irreparable loss."

Count Witte, who continues to be disliked and suspected by the revolutionists as the abettor of order, seems to have become indispensable to the czar.

It is generally remarked that Count Witte and General Treppoff have been acting in harmony. The latter has experienced the impossibility of co-operating with czar, who interferes with everything and changes his mind daily.

SAW HIS WIFE'S BODY DAILY.

Death of Abijah Humphreys, in Aa-dair County, Recalls Story.

Glasgow, Ky., Oct. 24.—With the death of Abijah Humphreys, who lived a few miles west of Columbia, comes the strange story of his life for the past ten years. He had always been considered rather an eccentric old man by his neighbors, but few except those who resided within sight of his home knew of his life for the past ten years, and in such esteem and reverence was the old gentleman held that his actions were scarcely ever spoken of. The story, which is vouched for by people whose word cannot be questioned, is as follows:

Ten years ago his wife died, and a few days after the funeral he went to the graveyard and exhumed the body and carried it to a cave on his farm. Then he began to visit the cavern two and three times a day at first, which lengthened as he grew older, until the past year he only made one trip each day.

About two years ago a particular friend of Humphreys approached him on the subject, but was unable to gain any information in regard to the matter, except that he spent an hour or more each day beside the corpse of his wife, whom he described as looking as natural as life.

BADLY HURT ON GRIDIRON.

La Porte, Ind., Oct. 24.—Hallet Haskins, a player on the La Porte football team, is lying at his home in this city in a serious condition as the result of a broken windpipe, an injury which physicians state may bring about a fatal result or cause total loss of speech.

Sterling, Ill., Oct. 24.—Ward Vandemark, a member of the local football team, while practicing today broke his ankle and badly sprained his back.

HAPPILY UNITED

Marriage of Miss Reed and Mr. Noble Last Night

SOCIAL EVENT MARKED FOR GENERAL ELEGANCE.

Several Other Similar Pleasing Events Which Are Announced to Occur Today.

MISS YOPP AND MR. LONG WEDDED YESTERDAY.

Most gorgeous and charming was the wedding last evening of Miss Emma L. Reed and Mr. Edmund Pearson Noble, at the Palmer, which was converted into a most beautiful bower of attraction for the handsome affair that was one of the most elegant nuptials occurring in this city for many years. The profuse floral decorations over the second floor of the hostelry were dreams of elegance arranged by the artists from Brunson's establishment, of this city.

The ceremony occurred at 9 o'clock and was performed beneath a beautiful floral array in the spacious dining hall of the hostelry, which quarter was crowded with several hundred friends witnessing the charming nuptials. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Cave, of the First Presbyterian church, who spoke the first words uniting the well-known couple, while assistance was rendered by Rector David Wright, of Grace Episcopal church.

Miss Carrie Rieck served as maid of honor, while the matrons of honor were Mesdames Gustav Warnekin, of Clarksville, Tenn., and Harry G. Tandy, of Frankfort, Ky. The best man was Mr. Robert Noble, brother of the groom, while groomsman were Messrs. Charles Spillman, Cook Husbands and William Rieck. The bride party was most handsomely costumed. After the ceremony the happy pair entertained with a reception, at which time the bridesmaids extended their sincere congratulations to the newly married people, who left this morning on the 1:40 o'clock east bound train for their bridal tour, which keeps them away for two weeks. Returning they will take up their home at the Palmer, to remain until there is completed the elegant home being erected by the groom on West Broadway.

The floral decorations at the hotel were something superior and formed a most beautiful scene. The parlor chandelier was adorned heavily with smilax, while the mirror was draped in asparagus, with window, mantle and wall decorations of palms and potted plants. The walls and ceiling of the grill room, which was used for the bridal luncheon, was gracefully hung with sprays of Southern smilax, tied with white tulle bows, while along the walls were banks of palms and ferns.

The buffet table was beautifully arranged in smilax and tulle, with four large streamers of tulle, sprayed with smilax, extending from the ceiling chandelier to corners of table. The centerpiece was of Harris lilies and pinks.

The dining hall formed the reception quarter and was most entrancing, an archway of Southern smilax being formed for the entire length of the long room, and ending at a magnificently constructed bower of palms, which filled the end of the hall and extended to the ceiling. In the north side of the room was a screen of palms from behind which floated sweet strains of music for the occasion. The walls and door through which the bridal party entered were decorated with smilax in keeping with the balance of the floral arrangements.

The concourse of people present evidenced some of the most elegant gowns ever viewed in this entire city, the elite appearing at its best at the happy assemblage.

After the nuptials the couple in receiving their friends was assisted by the following visitors: Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kilgore, of Anderson, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Norton, of Anderson, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Clem Hoover, of Anderson, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Nanekin, of Clarksville; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baxter Pace, of Louisville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jaeret, of Hopkinsville; Mrs. Harry Tandy, of Frankfort; Mrs. Annie Berryman, of Clarksville; Mrs. James Black, of Terre Haute; Miss Elizabeth Tandy, of Frankfort; Mr. Jack Lowry, of Clarksville; Mr. Harte

CUT TO PIECES

BOB HAYES VICTIM OF MANY SLASHES FROM POCKET KNIFE.

Got Into Argument With Stranger Who Left Pair of Shoes With J. C. Baker on Them.

Bob Hayes, the barber, came near being cut to pieces last night shortly before 9 o'clock during a fight in front of the engine house on North Fourth between Broadway and Jefferson streets. The right side of his face was laid wide open from edge of hair to jawbone, while there is another long, deep gash from center of neck, at the rear, around on the right side, to a point underneath the jawbone. It took just about thirty stitches even for Dr. Jeff Robertson to sew up the gaping wounds from which blood spurted in streams and dyed Hayes' clothing red. He suffered from loss of blood considerably. The cutting was done by a strange man who was in the Kenney Murray poolroom, on North Fourth between Broadway and Jefferson. The man carried with him a box of shoes, on the outside of which was written the name of J. C. Baker, while others say they believe his name is Warner or Wanner.

Hayes and the stranger were not together, but drifted into the big parlor, and there got into a game of pool. They shortly fell into an argument over the game, and the proprietor made them go out if they wanted to fight. While parleying they sauntered down Fourth and when about in front of the engine house commenced fighting. Hayes knocked the other down and kicked him several times, while the stranger pulled his knife and commenced slashing with result that the right side of Hayes' face was laid wide open and the long, deep neck gash inflicted. The stranger kept cutting and sliced the coat and pantaloons of Hayes many times, but miraculously to state the body was not reached and no wounds inflicted there.

After fighting it out the stranger ran and has not been captured by the police, while Hayes was taken to the office of Dr. Robertson and his injuries dressed. He was then taken home by his father, Mr. Mahtz Hayes, former owner of the Palmer barber shop.

The shoes left in the poolroom by the stranger were taken charge of by the authorities who now have them at police headquarters.

HOSPITAL BOARD

A MEETING WILL BE HELD THIS MORNING AT 10 O'CLOCK.

Mayor Yeiser Calls Them Together to Pass on the Drawn By-Laws and Regulations.

Mayor Yeiser called for yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at his office a meeting of the board of directors for Riverside hospital for the purpose of hearing a report from the committee regarding the by-laws and regulations being gotten up for guidance of the hospital and also nurses' training school maintained there. Only one of the directors was able to be present at this hour, so the mayor postponed the session until this morning at 10 o'clock, when the question pending will be taken up.

Some weeks ago the directors selected a committee from among themselves to compile the book of rules and regulations that will have to be observed by the hospital and also by those entering the training school to learn to become nurses. The documents will be similar in every respect to the observances followed along this line in the big hospitals and infirmaries the country over.

The mayor has called the board together a number of times, but business and other engagements always kept away more or less of the directors, until he has not yet been able to get a meeting. As the hospital is now in good running order and a very busy place each day, it is necessary that the regulations be decided on and enforced.

Norway and Sweden next Saturday sign the papers which completes their divorce. This will be the last act of the dissolution of the dual government which has held them together the many years past.

CABINET CHANGES

An Almost Complete Reorganization Expected.

SHAW AND MOODY ARE BOTH TO LEAVE.

Cortelyou to Be Transferred to the Treasury and Other Changes Will Follow.

BONAPARTE GOES TO HEAD OF THE NAVY.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—A dispatch from Washington, D. C., says:

Soon after the return of President Roosevelt to Washington from his Southern tour there will be a renewal of the rumors regarding impending changes in the cabinet, and within six months or so after the reopening of congress it is more than likely that the complexion of the cabinet will be completely changed.

This does not mean that every one of the present cabinet of ministers is to go out, but there will be two or three new members and probably three radical changes in position before the close of the current fiscal year.

Secretary Shaw is to go out of the cabinet of his own motion as a preliminary to his formal entry into the presidential race. The vacancy of the head of the United States treasury department will be filled, according to the present outlook, by the transfer of Postmaster General Cortelyou.

Attorney General Moody is expected to go out for some time. He remains at the head of the department of justice largely, if not entirely, that he may carry on the prosecution of the beef trust cases. His place probably will be filled by Chas. J. Bonaparte, the present secretary of the navy.

This, in turn, will create another vacancy, and the new head of the navy, according to the present slate, will be George Von L. Meyer, the present ambassador to Switzerland.

QUARANTINES

BUSINESS FALLING OFF IN HEALTH CERTIFICATE LINE.

Mississippi Towns, Memphis and Other Points Have Raised Their Quarantines.

Health Officer Graves of this city states that the rush for health certificates by traveling people seems to be falling off somewhat as not as many are calling at present for documents, as there have been during the past few months. This decrease is occasioned by the fact that the yellow fever is dying out in the South and the different cities and states are raising the quarantines established and rigidly maintained since late in the summer.

Word from Mississippi is that the state health authorities have lifted the embargo that has existed since fever broke out in New Orleans, and that now every town is again open and the traveling public free to pass back and forth at will. Upliftment of this quarantine is regarded as the most important in the South because being the main commonwealth of that vicinity through which everyone has to pass.

Yesterday word came from Memphis that the quarantine there had been raised also, while information from other cities of a similar nature will now arrive with regularity until all lift their doors to the world again and permit things to return to their normal condition. It is believed that the health officer will have nothing to do there inside the next week on ten days. During the period he has been issuing certificates though there have been many thousands of people accommodated.

Wm. H. Ainsted, a wealthy publisher of New York, has had Mrs. Jessie K. Graeffe, a daughter of the late United States Judge McIntosh, of Georgia, arrested for having influenced his daughter to leave home. The investigation of the charge promises something sensational, according to the police.

Mr. George Robertson, Jr., the ice man, expects to leave Saturday for his winter's hunt in Arkansas. He takes about 75 hounds with him.

IN COURT CIRCLES

Tom Lynn To Be Released on $1,000 Bail.

SURETIES BRING SUIT TO MAKE GOOD A BOND.

Judge Reed Files Opinion Settling the Question of Validity of Street Work Contract.

THE BUSINESS IN THE CIRCUIT COURT YESTERDAY.

Yesterday the judge at Kansas City, Mo., fixed bond of Tom Lynn at $1,000, and his father goes out tomorrow to execute same for the release of the young man, who has been held over to the grand jury to answer to the charge of killing Bert Amoss, his friend from Sioux Falls, Iowa, ten days ago. Until Mr. Lynn gets out there the lad will be held out there by the authorities.

The judge gave the boy an examining trial last Saturday, but held up until yesterday the question of bond, which he fixed at the figure mentioned.

During a quarrel Lynn picked up a bludgeon and struck Amoss who died shortly thereafter from the blow.

Divide Property.

A petition for division of property left by the late William Brown was yesterday instituted in the circuit court. It was filed by William Brown against Sarah Brown and is a friendly proceeding instigated so the real estate can be sold and proceeds divided between the heirs, which comprise the two parties to the action and others.

Lem Jones Sued.

Adolph and Lee Weil filed suit yesterday in the circuit court against J. Lem Jones for $1,000, and got out an attachment against his property. Jones is the saloonkeeper whose license was taken away from him by Mayor Yeiser when he violated the Sunday closing law. He had executed a $1,000 bond with the Weil Brothers as sureties, guaranteeing not to violate any laws, else forfeit the bond. When he sold on Sunday and his license was taken from him, the city sued him on the $1,000 bond, and he paid no attention to the suit which he is letting go by default, and judgment go against him and his sureties, who were made party to the suit. Now to protect themselves Adolph and Lee Weil sue Jones for $1,000 on the ground that they will have to pay out that much for him on the litigation instituted by the city for the $1,000 bond if same goes by default altogether like indications point to.

Opinion Filed.

Yesterday in the circuit court Judge Reed lodged his opinion which holds that there is valid the ordinance adopted by the city legislative authorities authorizing the reconstruction of Kentucky avenue and Jefferson street from First to Ninth streets. The judge in his opinion says that the only thing the city solicitor sets up in his contention that the ordinances are invalid is that the board of works selected brick as the material for reconstruction of part of the thoroughfare and bitulithic for the balance, while this board had nothing to do with the choosing of the material, but that the council was the proper body. The judge decided that the selection of material was the positive act of the council in these instances, because the board of works simply recommended to the council that certain materials be used and the council's concurrence therein made it the official act of the latter, and did not constitute a delegation by the council to the board of works the power of naming the material. These being the only grounds set up on the invalidity contention the judge dismissed the ex parte petition of the solicitor.

Yesterday's Business.

Rosa Mundt was granted a divorce yesterday from Henry E. Mundt, and awarded possession of their two children, Adrian and John Mundt.

There was dismissed the suit of Jennie Lytton against the Paducah city railway for damages, the company having compromised the matter by paying a certain sum to the plaintiff for injuries she sustained during a collision.

The jury was waived and there submitted to the judge the suit of Geo. H. Petty, administrator for J. H. Petty, against the United States Health and Accident Insurance company, for $300 claimed due on a policy the deceased held in the defendant company J. H. Petty got thrown out of a rig December 27th of last year and sustained injuries which proved fatal the next day. The company refused to pay the amount of the policy, and is now sued.

The jury was waived and there submitted to the judge the proceeding of Felix G. Rudolph, administrator of Dock Boyd, against the Prudential Life Insurance company, for collection of two policies amounting to $150 which Boyd carried on his life in that company. The suit is not a fight between the estate and insurance company, but to settle the question of who is entitled to the insurance money, the estate or Dora Edwards. The latter claims Boyd during his life assigned the policies to her to satisfy the debt she had against him for washing and other services, while Mr. Rudolph, as administrator, claims the money should be paid to him. The company has already paid the money into court and it remains until the judge decides who shall get it.

The plaintiff was ordered to execute bond for the costs of the suit before there is tried the litigation of the Seacoast Mineral company against the Citizens Savings bank.

Some affidavits and statements were filed in the suit of Lula Mankin vs. Mary E. Allison, which action is for settlement of a controversy over the H. C. Allison estate.

There was set for trial yesterday the suit of Josie Sebastian against Lucille Thompson, but it was not reached.

On account of the jury being waived and actions submitted to the judge, and also because of the dismissal of other suits, there was not tried yesterday by the jury any case at all, as there was no need for the jurors.

Today's Docket.

The proceedings set down for trial today are as follows: Effie Leigh against the Citizens Savings bank; Thomas W. Green against the Paducah City Railway company; Thomas Prather against the Paducah City Railway company; James Ferriman against H. P. Hawkins & Son; Felix G. Rudolph, guardian of Rogers, against the Paducah Cohanus Manufacturing company. The action of Mrs. Leigh against the bank is regarding some property at Fourth and Kentucky avenue. Green and Prather sue the street railway company for personal injuries. James Ferriman sues Hawkins & Son for money they owe him for feedstuff he sold them. Rudolph for Rogers sues Cohanus people for injuries sustained by the boy while he was working there.

Filed Schedule.

Referee Bagby in the bankruptcy court yesterday issued an order directing Taylor O. Fisher to file by next Monday a list showing property now in his hands that formerly belonged to the firm of Henry Grace and Taylor Fisher. Grace was forced into bankruptcy and scheduled only his individual business. Now he seeks to force the partnership business into the liabilities and assets.

INSURANCE MEN

HAVE ORGANIZED AN ASSOCIATION FOR THEIR BENEFIT.

Mr. Judd K. Greer Has Returned From St. Louis Where Gathering Was Held by Agents.

Mr. Judd K. Greer, the insurance man, has returned from St. Louis where he and other representatives of health and accident concerns organized a national association consisting of the agents engaged in their line of business. Mr. Greer was one of the active members in establishing the association, and is a member of the advisory board.

In speaking of the body the Globe Democrat of Sunday says as follows: "General agents of a number of accident and health insurance companies organized a national association in St. Louis yesterday. The name adopted is the National association of general agents of accident and health insurance. The by-laws make eligible for membership all managers and general agents in this line of insurance in the United States, numbering fully 10,000.

"The organizers represent chiefly companies making a feature of health insurance, but they expect the association to develop along broad lines and have a large membership.

"R. F. Court of Springfield, Ill., was elected president. The other officers chosen are: S. O. Webb, St. Louis, vice-president; R. C. Maginity, St. Louis, secretary; T. I. Bradford, St. Louis, treasurer; Edward S. Delaplaine, Milo B. Heinrichs, R. T. Bradford, St. Louis; J. K. Green, Paducah, Ky., and O. J. Chapin, Springfield, Ill., members of the advisory board.

The officers state that one reason for bringing the association out at this time is the possibility of the New York insurance investigation taking hold of the accident and health companies. To combat any injurious reaction along this line is one of the objects, together with the promotion of general welfare of the agents by co-operation. The meeting adjourned, subject to call by the secretary."

St. Petersburg reports say that the Russians had a million men in Manchuria when peace was declared. Seven hundred thousand men were on the firing lines direct.

The czar of Russia has further honored M. Witte. He has made him the minister of finance, which is the premiership of his government circle.

INTERURBAN LINE

THE CRUMP CHILDREN SOLD SYSTEM AT COLUMBUS, OHIO.

Eastern Capitalists Will Extend Same Into an Interurban Line Run to West Baden, Ind.

Word from Columbus, Ind., is that Messrs. John, William and Charles Crump, of that city, Mrs. Dr. C. R. Whiteside of here, and the other brothers and sisters have sold the street car line and power plant of Columbus, to eastern capitalists who are preparing to convert same into headquarters and terminus for an interurban line that will run over to West Baden, Ind., passing through Seymour and other intermediate cities.

Colonel John Crump, the multi-millionaire of Columbus, last year made his children a present of the street car and power house system which is valued at about $80,000 combined. It is a first-class plant for a city the size of Columbus, which has 15,000 inhabitants. Eastern parties want to run an interurban line through that section of the country, and a deal has been effected whereby the Crump children, which includes Mrs. Whitesides of here, have sold the street car and power house plants, but retained considerable stock in the new promotion. It will take many hundreds of thousands of dollars to make the interurban extensions, and work will be started right away, with expectation of getting same completed by next spring. The interurban will connect all the small towns and large places of that portion of Indiana with headquarters at Columbus.

HORSE DRUNK IN A SALOON.

Animal After Quaffing Two Buckets of Beer Wrecks Barroom.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 24.—The novel spectacle of a drunken horse in a saloon owned by Frank Weideman, 10,060 Vincennes road, while furnishing amusement to the frequenters of the place, so incensed the neighborhood, it is said, that, with other aggravating conditions, the matter was brought to the attention of the authorities and the case received a hearing in Justice Gant's court in West Madison street yesterday afternoon, when a fine of $50 was imposed.

The fact that the horse was taken into the saloon and given beer and other intoxicants to drink came out in the evidence introduced in the trial of Weideman on three charges, two of which were dismissed. The complainant was Mrs. Fred Nigg, who claimed that drinks of an alcoholic nature were sold to her husband while he was intoxicated and after she had protested and warned the saloonkeeper.

It was claimed by witnesses that recently several of the hangers-on around the saloon took a horse from a rig, led it into the saloon and staid it before the bar. One of the crowd a rig, led it into the saloon and stood it to the surprise of all present the horse partook of the beverage. A second bucket, it is claimed, was offered the animal, which it drank with avidity. Shortly afterward the horse manifested symptoms of intoxication and a number of the inmates of the saloon sought to lead it out.

This aroused the ire of the animal, which proceeded to use its heels and teeth. After breaking up chairs and converting the place into a pile of debris, the animal, overcome by the drink and its exertions, placidly stretched itself on its side in front of the bar and went to sleep, where it remained until daylight despite every effort made to remove it.

Justice Grant decided to admonish a warning to Weideman with regard to the sale of intoxicants to Nigg and to fine him for conducting a place that was a public nuisance.

GREAT STRIKE THREATENED.

Textile Operatives Not Satisfied With Proposed Operative Plan.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 24.—The textile situation here was more critical last night than it has been at any time since the close of the great strike last January. The manufacturers' Association, representing all the print cloth mills in the city, with the exception of those controlled by M. C. D. Borden, of New York, held a meeting yesterday afternoon and voted to refuse the request of the textile council for the direct restoration of the wage schedule which prevailed previous to the 12½ per cent. reduction of July 25, 1904. The action of the association will be considered at a special meeting of the textile council tomorrow night when it is probable the entire matter will be referred to special meetings Wednesday evening of all the unions represented in the council.

Many of the business men fear that another strike will be decided upon by the unions, but at this time it is impossible to indicate what action the operatives will take.

Mr. Will D. Lee left yesterday for Cairo after visiting his uncle, Constable Alex. Patton.

FROM COMMANDER

SECRETARY COONS GETS LETTER OF THANKS FOR LITERATURE.

Said Nothing About Coming Here So Probably Has Not Received Mayor's Letter.

Secretary D. W. Coons, of the Commercial club, yesterday received a letter from Commander R. G. Winterhalter, of the gunboat Paducah, acknowledging receipt of some literature the secretary had sent the officers and crew of the craft. The commander had written here for some data regarding Paducah, so the officers and crew could intelligently talk about the city after which the gunboat is named, and Mr. Coons sent them circulars and other information that completely covered the subject, and for which the commander sends the heartfelt thanks of all aboard.

Regarding the silver service to be given the gunboat, Commander Winterhalter said they would highly appreciate such a gift that would be religiously guarded forever and highly esteemed by all attached to the naval vessel.

Additional information the commander asked for was the name of the gunboat sponsor, names of the daily newspapers, name of the library president, etc.

In his letter to the secretary of the Commercial club the commander did not say what date the gunboat would come around up the Mississippi and Ohio to this city, and this possibly indicates he had not gotten the letter of Mayor Yeiser when he wrote the secretary. The mayor in his response to Mr. Winterhalter's communication, suggested that next April would be the best time for the boat to come here and be presented the fine silver service set.

The ladies of the Daughters of the Confederacy and others are still at work daily enlarging the list of subscriptions being gotten up from among the public for the purpose of buying the service for the gunboat, and prospects are that it will be one of the most costly and beautiful ever presented.

GREAT DAY FOR SAILORS.

Reception at Tokio—Admiral Togo Given Ovation by Emperor.

Tokio, Oct. 14.—Tokio's reception today to the officers and men from the combined fleet was a most notable affair. The day was extremely fine and the public enthusiasm was unparalleled. The procession moved from the Shimbashi railway station at Ueno Park, along the crowded streets.

The air was rent with thunderous cheers. Admiral Togo's carriage was profusely decorated with flowers and the public feeling towards him was next only in warmth to that shown the emperor.

AWAITING BRICK

MR. LANT SAYS THAT RAILROAD DID NOT GIVE HIM CARS.

City Engineer Has Finished Drawing of Third to Adams, Showing Feet Owned by All.

Just as soon as the brick arrive from Evansville for the reconstruction work on South Third street the work will be finished and that thoroughfare accepted by the board of works and estimates given against the abutting property owners.

Mr. Lant of the Evansville firm, states that the reason he could not get the brick there before now was because the Illinois Central railroad was so crowded with business that they did not have any spare freight cars to give him, therefore the consignments could not be forwarded on time. As soon as Mr. Lant gave this as his reason for not forwarding the material, City Engineer Washington had General Agent John Donovan, of the Illinois Central of this city, to take the matter up with Supt. Egan, of the Louisville division, and see if cars could not be gotten over to Evansville for the shipments that city being on Mr. Egan's territory also. The road officials have complied with the request and some of the brick should be here by now. It will take about 150,000 to finish the work, brick being clear to Third and Broad on one side of the street car track, and only a few hundred feet behind on the other side, while the special brick inside the rails are right along there also.

The city engineer has completed his drawing on Third as far up as Adams street, showing the number of feet each abutting property owner owns. This drawing is being made so that estimates can be issued against the adjacent landowners, showing how much they owe on their portion of the work's cost. The drawing will include every piece of property lying on Third, and around on Broad over to Fourth, and when completed, the estimates against the property owners will be issued.

No work at all is going on now on Third where things are at a standstill until the brick come.

LONGEST PUMPKIN VINE.

Rockport, Ky., Oct. 24.—One of the largest pumpkin vines grown in this section was grown by J. T. Norris. The vine measured 1,300 feet and 675 pounds of pumpkins were grown on the vine. The most interesting part of this pumpkin story is that it was never cultivated and came up in a potato patch. This is considered by farmers to be the record-breaking pumpkin vine of Kentucky.

TAKES OVER T. C.

IN TEN DAYS I. C. GOES INTO NASHVILLE OVER NEW CONNECTION.

Through Passenger and Freight Runs Will Follow as Soon as Road Can Be Ballasted.

Nashville, Oct. 24.—President Stuyvesant Fish of the Illinois Central railroad has announced that the I. C. and Southern will be running their own trains in and out of Nashville, Tenn., over the Tennessee Central tracks within the next ten days. However, it is not supposed that through passenger service will be established from Chicago to Nashville by way of this city for about three months.

The I. C. is now engaged in relaying and ballasting its tracks both north of Evansville and south of it to Hopkinsville. It will be necessary to improve the Tennessee Central tracks from Hopkinsville to Nashville, before they will permit the fast service, but the work can be accomplished within three months. Nearly 5,000 men are now at work ballasting the tracks of the Evansville division and the work will soon be completed.

The through passenger and freight service will in all probability be established as soon as the tracks are improved and the first of the year will see through passenger trains from Chicago to Nashville through this city over the T. C. The Southern will also make similar arrangements.

In about ten days the actual taking over of the Tennessee Central by the two roads will be completed.

POTATO FAMINE UP NORTH.

Minnesota Farmers Will Be Compelled to Get New Seed.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 24.—Potatoes in northern Minnesota are nearly as costly as apples. Farmers who planted quarter sections of the tubers are not receiving a yield large enough to warrant digging and thousands of acres will be allowed to rot in the ground rather than create expense through digging operations.

According to potato experts in this section, including Frank T. Haseltine of this city, the entire seed stock of the Red river valley must be changed before the crop can again be profitable. He says:

"Seed must be imported from some locality or localities in which the rot and blight, so disastrous to the crop in this section this year, is not apparent. Otherwise the rot will continue year by year to devastate the fields of the tubers, and farmers who plant the vines will have their trouble for nothing."

"The rot this year is widespread and leaves hardly a potato in the valley which is fit for either the table or for use another year as seed. Montana and southern districts in which the tuber is grown have not been affected by the trouble to such a great extent, but the crop is nevertheless short all around and importation from foreign potato districts will be the only hope of again raising a successful crop in the valley."

The rot is a peculiar affliction of the potato and is compared to the blight that spread over Ireland when the famine in that potato country was so severe. The tubers, after reaching partial maturity in the ground, suddenly turn into a soft, mushy substance and later on dry out into dust. Farmers who sold their crop early in the season are rejoicing at their good fortune.

HOLDS EXPRESS COMPANY IS A LIQUOR DEALER.

Shipping of Beer Into Prohibition State Calls for Tax.

St. Louis, Oct. 24.—An opinion handed down in the United States court of appeals yesterday, holds that an express company shipping beer into a prohibition state is to be considered a liquor dealer and is subject to the payment of internal revenue tax.

The government brought suit against the Western Express company to collect $3,038 internal revenue tax. In the petition the government alleged that the express company shipped malt liquor to twenty-six towns in North Dakota. The defendant, however, declared that it handled the liquor merely as a common carrier and was not subject to internal revenue tax.

The case was first tried before Judge Amidon in the federal court of North Dakota, who instructed the jury to return a verdict for the government. The case was appealed to the United States court of appeals and Judge Phillips affirmed the decision of the lower court.

ARE EXPLAINING

CABINET MEN ARE TELLING WHAT THE QUIET ORDER MEANS.

Heads of Departments Will Have to Deal With Troublesome Office-Seekers.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Notwithstanding that they are supposed to be bound by the president's instructions to do no talking to the press, members of the cabinet are hastening to explain the meaning of the executive order knocking the bottom out of a time-honored civil service rule in order that they may save themselves from being stamped when congress reaches Washington.

The new order gives the members of the cabinet full authority to remove any subordinate at will, without the necessity of filing charges. This was brought into being to get rid of a chauffeur who had the audacity to run his automobile around and in front of the president's carriage, and it proved to be quick and effective.

The difficulty, however, seems to be that nine-tenths of the political workers who are thirsting for office will refuse to believe, even on a stack of bibles, any statement which a head of a department may make that he has no position open to a deserving and well-recommended party worker. Heretofore senators and representatives, when approached by the office-seekers, who descend upon Washington like the Huns and Vandals when they think spoils are in sight, could truthfully say that every office was so completely protected by the civil service rules that it would be easier to put the camel through the needle's eye than to couple them with the federal payroll.

Senators and representatives after withstanding the rush as long as they can, will unload their troubles on the departments, and it will then be seen whether the cabinet officers will be able to hold out against the persuasion, which is not always soft and gentle, that will be brought to bear.

In some of the departments the effect of the new order has been very depressing. There the uncertain tenure in the atmosphere of petty jealousies, conspiracies and the striving for promotions is better understood than elsewhere, and naturally the complaint is bitter.

Senator Clapp of Minnesota today said he would join with Senator Dooliver in an effort to report from the interstate commerce committee a railroad rate bill embodying the president's views. Senator Cullom recently indicated that he would give his influence to such measure, so that Mr. Roosevelt appears to have the votes of three of the eight republican members of the committee assured for his programme.

HUMANE SOCIETY

MAYOR YEISER YESTERDAY SELECTED HIS BY-LAWS COMMITTEE.

When the By-Laws and Regulations Are Completed, All Other Details Will Be Arranged.

Yesterday morning Mayor Yeiser selected Mesdames James Campbell, Sr., Cook Husbands and Attorney W. F. Bradshaw, Sr., as the committee to get up the constitution and by-laws for the humane society being organized here. All three are among the heartiest supporters of the movement that looks toward protection of dumb brutes and other helpless creatures unable to help themselves against cruelty. They will shortly hold a meeting to get together the by-laws and regulations for government of the body, and then when done, ask Mayor Yeiser to call another public mass meeting of those pushing the project, at which time the constitution will be adopted, and perfection of the organization effected, by election of permanent chairman, secretary and standing committees.

At the meeting to be held for purpose of perfecting the organization, those behind the movement will decide whether to select an especial officer to look after cases of cruelty, or whether every member of the entire society will in themselves constitute an officer and when they run across cases demanding attention, report them to the regular police force and see that warrants are issued and vigorous prosecutions effected.

The promoters believe that with several good, strong convictions and punishments among the people inclined to be inconsiderate of animals, that the good lesson will prove as an incentive for all to treat the beasts right.

WILL DODGE

ADMINISTRATION LIKELY TO LET ISTHMIAN CANAL PROJECT TO CONTRACTORS.

This Plan Regarded by Secretary Taft as Best Means to Build Enterprise.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Secretary Taft talked interestingly about the future of the Panama canal to the members of the press. His attention was called to a story in a morning paper in which a prominent engineer just returned from Panama said that the only way the canal will be built satisfactorily will be by private contract. Secretary Taft said he thoroughly agreed with the engineer, and that he thought the secretary of the administration would resolve itself in that direction. "With but little exception," said he, "I think the work will be done by private contract. Events have proven that this will be a most expeditious, economical and satisfactory way of building the canal. It is the way the railroads have found to be the most satisfactory in great projects, and I am sure that we will find it the same. Contractors will be paid so much per cubic yard for the excavation, and the labor problem will not then be ours."

Asked what part of the work would be excepted, Secretary Taft replied that he thought the government itself would have to undertake the excavation of Culebra cut. The expense involved in the disposition of the excavated dirt off that cut will be so great, said he, "that I doubt if we will be able to find a responsible contractor who will be willing to undertake it. If we cannot, the government will have to do the work itself. However, we may be able to find a responsible contractor even for that great undertaking. If we can, I advocate letting that out, too."

Municipal Ownership.

The question of municipal ownership is made an important feature in the New York City campaign. Not only is Hearst a municipal ownership candidate for mayor, but Ivis, the Republican nominee, is talking quite radically on the subject. In a speech made Monday night Mr. Ivis held out the promise that if he were elected mayor the Republican legislature would grant enabling legislation by which New York City could take possession of the gas plant of the Consolidated Company and furnish gas at from 50 to 75 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. He also hinted at city ownership of street railways and said:

"The result of my programme, therefore, would be the ultimate municipalization of all of the great public-utility franchises, and I should have the public, as the best and the most trustworthy corporation, manage the business of that corporation itself. Don't you think the chosen representatives of the people of the state of New York are equally as competent to manage the subways of New York as, for instance, the presidents of the life insurance companies have been to manage that business? If anything can be worse than those people have done, I would like to know what it is."

In commenting on the New York situation the Springfield Republican says:

"The situation politically in New York is not unlike that prevailing in Chicago prior to the recent upheaval, which placed a man flatly committed to immediate public ownership of the street railways in the mayor's chair. In 1899, for example, all candidates in the Chicago election stood for municipal ownership with more or less qualification—Harrison, machine Democrat, favoring the principle in general; Carter, Republican, declaring guardedly for public ownership on a twenty-year limitation of existing franchises, and Altgeld, radical independent, favoring immediate action. At the polls Harrison led, with Carter second and Altgeld third. But within four years the Chicago electorate was voting overwhelmingly for immediate action."

"Now, in New York, the machine Democratic platform makes a general declaration for municipal ownership, which is taken to have little or no practical meaning; but the Republican candidate goes much further for radical measures than did Carter of Chicago in 1899, while Hearst holds a position corresponding to that of Gov. Altgeld in his mayoralty candidacy. Meantime, however, municipal ownership sentiment all over the country has apparently been making great headway since 1899; hence the greater uncertainty surrounding the highly interesting situation which has developed in New York."

"Practical" Politics.

The president is using some strong language on his Southern trip. This, for instance, is what he said at Atlanta anent "practical" politics:

"There are men who use the phrase 'practical politics' as merely a euphemism for dirty politics, and it is such men, who have brought the word 'politics' into discredit. There are other men who use the noxious phrase 'business is business' as an excuse and justification for every kind of mean and crooked work; and these men make honest Americans hang their head because of some of the things they do. It is the duty of every honest patriot to rebuke in emphatic fashion alike the politician who does not understand that the only kind of 'practical politics' which a nation can safely tolerate is that kind which we know as clean politics, and that we are as severe in our condemnation of the business trickery which succeeds as of the business trickery which fails. The scoundrel who fails can never, by any possibility be as dangerous to the community as the scoundrel who succeeds; and of all the men in the country, the worst citizens, those who would excite in our minds the most contemptuous abhorrence, are the men who have achieved great wealth, or any other form of success, in any save a clean and straightforward manner."

Washington information via Chicago says there is to be a general reorganization of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet just as soon as the president returns to the capital from his trip south. It is stated as a fact that Messrs. Shaw and Moody are to leave the administration family and that to fill the vacancies which will be thus created some of the present members of the cabinet will be changed to the places and new men named for the open ones. There promises to be interesting times in Washington the next two months from all reports.

If the laws of New York are not sufficient to make the mismanagers of the big life insurance companies give up to the companies the large sums of which they have been filched, then the laws of New York stand sadly in need of revision or amending. That there was intent to defraud in all the so-called managers did is clear as any point could possibly be, and this being the case the guilt of accused is made out. Let justice stand the whole gang up and give them their deserts—terms in the penitentiaries—and do so without delay.

The civil service rules are going to get a black eye when the coming congress meets. The recent keep quiet order of the president as given to the cabinet means this and perhaps more. If there is anything between the lines of the order—and there is no doubt a great deal hidden there—the hungry horde is to be better fed henceforth at the official crib than for years. The president has, it is pretty clear, had a change of heart since the last national election.

Mexico, which some months since abandoned silver as money, is soon to put gold coins in circulation. The old silver coins will be redeemed by the new gold ones. The exchange will be liveliest about the beginning of the new year.

"Chicago is now bowing to the horse and the prettiest of women. The Garden City is 'doing' the horse show act."

Good Advice to a Tramp.
(Minneapolis Journal.)

The autumn night was chill. There was a hint of frost in the air. The tramp's collar was turned up and his nose blue with cold.

"I have here 9 cents," he said. "If you will give me one more penny, sir, I can get a bed all to myself."

"No, I can't do that," said the stranger. "But I advise you to ask the gentleman you are to sleep with for an additional penny. He should give it to you gladly."

Bagby-Spicer.

At 9 o'clock this morning Mrs. Zulma Bagby, of this city, and Mr. William Spicer, of near Hopkinsville, will be united in marriage at the residence of the bride on Husband street near Sixth. Rev. W. E. Cave, of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate at the nuptials, which will be followed by the departure of the couple at noon for their future home near the capitol of Christian county. The wedding will be a home affair, very quiet, and witnessed by a limited number of friends.

The charming and attractive young bride is the popular widow formerly cashier for the Rudy, Phillips & Co. establishment of Broadway. She is a very sweet and dainty young woman of many admirers and quite popular with all.

A very enterprising and prosperous farmer is the groom, who comes of an excellent Christian county family, and takes unto himself a most charming bride.

Sullivan-Thomas.

This afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the Broadway Methodist church there will be conducted the marriage of Miss Bennie Sullivan and Mr. Victor Thomas, who right after the service leave for their wedding trip through the North.

Thomas, of Altoona, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Goodloe, of Calvert City; Mrs. M. L. Chestnut and Miss Ella Duval, of Gilbertsville; Mr. and Mrs.

GETTING READY

THE TOWN LAID OFF INTO DISTRICTS LAST EVENING.

Ministers and Others Put in Charge of Territories for Religious Census.

A rousing and interesting meeting was held last evening at the First Baptist church by the workers who intend taking a religious census of the city next Saturday, and the enthusiasm and depth with which they are entering into the movement indicates a most successful enumeration that will be the forerunner of much good to the Christian status of affairs in this city.

The gathering was for the purpose of outlining their plans and the number present was unusually large, considering the exceedingly disagreeable night and other meetings attracting many.

The work is being conducted under the able direction of Rev. John Cheek, whose one striking characteristic is the fervency and determination with which he vigorously enters everything and always succeeds well. With the others he laid the city off into seven districts and named what persons should supervise the work in those respective territories.

Rev. W. W. Armstrong, of the Trimble street Methodist church, will have charge of the workers in that section commencing at Atkins avenue in Row landtown and running up to Harrison street, bounded by the river on the northeast and corporate limits on the opposite side.

Rector David Wright, of Grace Episcopal church, has charge from Harrison to Broadway, and river to limits.

Rev. Eshman, of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, will have charge from Broadway to Tennessee street, and river to Illinois Central railroad tracks.

The territory between Tennessee street, Island creek, river and railroad tracks was not assigned, but the probabilities are Rev. B. W. Bass, of the Tenth street Christian church, will take it.

Rev. William Bourquin, of the Evangelical church of South Fifth street, was assigned to all of Mechanicsburg.

Rev. T. J. Newell, of the Broadway Methodist church, will have charge of Wortens addition and all that territory between Broadway and city limits to the south and the Illinois Central railroad tracks and city limits to the west.

Each one of these ministers and others will have about 15 or 20 workers under them in every territory, and expect to make the most thorough canvass ever held in this city, getting the names of every white person in Paducah. The pastor of each denomination will take half his district workers from his own church, and the other half from outside churches. There is needed about fifty more workers in addition to those who have already volunteered their services, and Rev. Cheek requests that anyone desiring to assist, call on him or leave word today.

HONESTY THE BEST POLICY?

By No Means the Case in Great Wall Street Deals, Says Mr. Lawson.

An extremely plain statement of the absence of ethics in matters of high finance is made by Mr. Lawson in the November installment of "Frenzied Finance" in Everybody's.

"As a matter of fact," he says, "syndicates are organized in Wall street by successful bankers or capitalists—men who have made a great deal of money—not by men noted for their personal virtue and moral purity. In fact, the latter qualities never enter into the consideration of those who chip in to form this pool. The head of the 'syndicate' may be a slick operator who takes full advantage of the traditional secrecy connected with the syndicate to turn over to his partners only such part of the gains of a particular venture as will insure their good will for his next. The attraction for the others is not his 'honesty,' but the privilege of sharing the profits he is sure to capture. He can charge what he pleases for promotion costs; he can appropriate to himself such stock bonuses as may fall to his syndicate; he can give out that the operation has proven a loss—no one is the wiser, and the rule prescribes that accounts, wherever they be, are to be considered necessarily correct. Detection of robbery being impossible, there has grown up the tradition that syndicates are inevitably pure. I described to my readers early in this story how Mr. Rogers and William Rockefeller erected the fifth-floor amalgamated structure and housed a number of most distinguished capitalists into believing that they were all in on the ground floor. Later the checks handed out to the participants were considerably less than the actual share of profits due each."

According to report of the interstate commerce commission just issued there were 886 persons killed and 13,783 persons injured by railroads in the United States the past year ending June 30. Of the killed and wounded the majority were passengers. There were 1,231 collisions and 1,535 derailments, of which 163 collisions and 168 derailments affected passenger trains. The damage to cars, engines and roadway by these accidents amounted to $2,410,671.

Yesterday afternoon the steamer Tennessee got away for the Tennessee river. She comes back again next Sunday. She is thoroughly overhauled, repainted and put in good shape for the trade.

The steamer Clyde came out of the Tennessee river yesterday and lays until tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock before getting out on her return that way. That is her regular day under the schedule of departures for this company's line of boats.

The City of Saitillo should pass out of the Tennessee river tomorrow night bound back to St. Louis from the Tennessee river.

The Bob Dudley comes in this morning from the Cumberland river and gets out immediately on her return that way.

The Henry Harley gets in this morning and leaves immediately on her return to Evansville.

This morning the Dick Fowler resumes her old business in the Cairo trade, leaving at 8 o'clock and coming back tonight about 11. The Warren, which has been filling her place, goes into the Evansville trade, leaving here tomorrow morning for that city. This will put two boats back in the Evansville trade again.

BOAT DISABLED

WRIST AND CRANK BROKE ON FERRYBOAT BETTIE OWEN.

It Will Take One Week to Fix Same, and Pending That Charleston Fills the Trade.

Today the steamer Charleston will commence making trips for the ferryboat Bettie Owen between this city, Brookport and the Illinois Landing opposite. She will continue temporarily in that trade until the ferryboat is repaired of the broken wrist and crank which became impaired Monday afternoon.

At that time the Owen was returning from Brookport on one of her regular trips, when she reached a point opposite the Illinois Central incline. Suddenly the wrist crank broke on one side of her, and she was compelled to close down the engine furnishing power for that side, and come on into the harbor by operating only the engine for the other side. All of yesterday the mechanics worked with her, but it will take about one week to get everything into proper running condition again, and pending that time the Charleston fills the place of the Owen.

The Charleston will carry her own crew with exception of Capt. Alex Woolfolk, the veteran pilot of the ferryboat, who will steer the other craft while she is in this trade.

He—Nor I. That's a woman's trick.

She—Oh! indeed?

He—Of course. That's why it's called Eve's dropping.

CABLE DUE

MANAGER JOYNES WILL PUT IT DOWN ON ITS ARRIVAL.

The Electricians Are Daily Working on Big Switchboard at Exchange Building.

Manager Joynes, of the East Tennessee Telephone company, is daily expecting from Chicago the cable which is to go through the underground conduits leading out from rear of the Exchange building on South Fourth beneath the alley to Kentucky avenue and then out the avenue to points one hundred feet radiating from the intersection of Fourth and the avenue. Just as soon as the cables come they will be run through the conduits and the overhead wires then taken down.

A large force of expert electricians continue daily at work installing the fine new switchboard being placed in at the exchange rooms. There are thousands of small wires to be connected up and other things to be attended to, and it will take a month yet to get things completed. The new board is in the rear portion of the building on the second floor, where considerably more room exists than where the present old board stands in the front part of that story. Along with the switchboard new machinery and other apparatus is being installed and Manager Joynes believes the plant will be unexcelled when these new improvements are completed, it costing thousands of dollars to do this.

The new switchboard is the most recent patent of renowned electricians and is a great convenience as compared with the old one.

Good Business.

A writer who spends his summers at the seashore tells the following story: An ignorant countryman who saw the sea for the first time was much impressed with the effect of the blue water, and asked a fisherman if he could tell the owner, as he would like to buy a gallon to take home to his wife. The fisherman replied, proudly:

"Us, me man—we own it!"

"Land's sakes!" exclaimed the rustic. "Could you sell me a gallon for 50 cents?"

"Sure," said the fisherman; and he disappeared, returning in a few moments with a jar of water, for which he received the countryman's 50 cents.

The latter departed with his purchase. Returning later in the day, after the tide had gone out, he gazed in silent wonder at the water, which had receded far from the beach.

"Lummie!" he exclaimed, "don't they do a trade!"—Harper's Weekly.

BUSINESS WORLD

THE POAGE CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT CLOSED BY SHERIFF.

Liveryman John Terrell Will Commence Moving Soon—Cotton Brought Out.

Yesterday Sheriff Lee Potter closed the W. K. Poage clothing establishment, on Broadway between Third and Fourth streets, on orders from the local circuit court, and now has charge of this store.

Last week in this court a judgment against the Poducal clothier was given in favor of the Robert Wicks company, of Chicago, for $5,433.22, claimed due on notes Mr. Poage executed in purchasing goods from that concern. Being unable to give bond for the verdict the execution was yesterday awarded the Chicago concern and the stock of clothing of Mr. Poage taken charge of by the sheriff, who is directed to sell same within a specified time if a settlement of the judgment is not made.

About Ready to Move.

Liveryman John Terrell is pushing things getting his new stable finished on Jefferson between Fourth and Fifth streets, and believes that he will have things finished enough to begin moving day after tomorrow from the old stand, beside the post-office on Fifth street between Broadway and Jefferson. He is as anxious to get his new place finished and moved into as the Elks are for this, the latter's desire being occasioned in order that the old stable can be torn down to make room for the handsome home the lodge will erect on that site. It will take Mr. Terrell only about one or two days to move as he just has to take his horses and vehicles over, and carry to the new place what hay and feedstuff is in the loft of the old stable.

Bringing Out Cotton.

The steamers coming out of the Tennessee river every few days are now bringing some bales of cotton from up that waterway, and it looks like old times to see the white product passing through the streets, being transferred from boat to railroad. It has been some years since cotton was shipped through here by boat, because the railroads are gradually building up to the Tennessee and Cumberland rivers, and get this trade because they can transport the cotton more quickly than any marine craft.

Long Distance Line.

Manager H. A. Love, of the independent Telephone company, says their long distance line from here to Louisville will shortly be completed, and that when this is done the new people owning the local concern will make other improvements.

REMODELING

OF I. C. FREIGHT HOUSE TO BE DEFERRED UNTIL AFTER RUSH.

Industrial Commissioner Clair Comes Here Today From Chicago—Movements of Road Men.

General Agent John Donovan, of the Illinois Central railroad, some weeks ago got the higher authorities to empower him to have the general freight office building in Sixth and Campbell streets enlarged and remodeled so as to properly care for their growing business. Yesterday Mr. Donovan stated, however, that he would not have the work started until after the big fall rush usually coming on in the freight line towards the end of the year. The working of carpenters and others around the building would hamper the freight forces in handling their business during the busy season, so the improvements will be held over until about December or the first of the year.

Industrial Commissioner.

Industrial Commissioner J. C. Clair, of the Illinois Central, will arrive here this morning at 7:30 o'clock from Chicago, and leave immediately on the first boat for Colconda. Mr. Clair yesterday wired Secretary Coon of the Commercial club to meet him here, but did not state what his mission to Paducah and Colconda comprised. He is at the head of the department maintained by the railroad for purpose of helping locate industries at the towns touched by the road, and in fact assist in upbuilding all business interests of cities entered by the Illinois Central.

Movements of Railroaders.

Chairman John A. Hill, of the joint protective board for the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, yesterday morning left for other places on the Illinois Central after visiting the carmen's local order the night before.

Mr. W. E. Kelley left yesterday for the Louisville division after inspecting the local storeroom at the Illinois Central. He is connected with the general storekeeper's office at Chicago.

Mr. Bell Given has returned from a trip to Louisville.

Mr. George Beyer has resigned his place at the Illinois woodworking shops, and in a few days leaves for near Topeka, Kan., with his family, to locate on the farm he has bought there.

Her Unhappy Way.

"That girl has an unfortunate idea of repartee."

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "She has an idea that she is saying smart things when she is merely saying things that smart."—Washington Star.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Tonight's Great Show.

A warm reception is in store for "The Fortune Teller," which comes to the Kentucky tonight. Milton and Sargent Amorn offer the original Alice Neilsen production, which is sufficient guarantee that the scenic equipment, costumes, and effects are of the most lavish description. That this charming comic opera, containing the best efforts of Victor Herbert and Harry B. Smith, will be admirably presented is warranted by the names in the cast. Grace Orr Myers sings the prima donna role of Irma and Musette, to which she is admirably adapted; it is said, both in voice and histrionic talent; Grafton Baker amply fills the exacting requirements of the tenor role, Irene Langford is charming in the part of Mlle. Pom Pom, and Harry Turpin sings the basso numbers of the gypsy lover. The excellent comedy trio, Milton Dawson, Herman Hirschberg and James McElhern, are cast for the three principal laugh-producing characters. Others who are most favorably mentioned in the cast are Ivy Davis as Vaninka, Flossie Foreman as Rafael, Charles Phillips as Kopyacz and James Feney as Potemkin. There are sixty persons employed in the presentation of "The Fortune Teller," not the least important factor being the chorus of well trained male voices and girls who are not only fair to look upon, but who can sing and dance.

Returns After Many Years.

"Where is the little boy who used to sing in the gallery?" is a question that has been asked J. A. Coburn, manager of the Great Barlow Minstrels, which plays here Saturday matinee and night.

Some years ago Artina Samson, then a little fellow in knee pants and the possessor of a high soprano voice, will be remembered as singing in the gallery in answer to a song sung by one of the end men with this company.

His father, Ed C. Samson, was also a member of the show at that time as interlocutor and bass singer, but unfortunately died shortly afterward, leaving Arthur his only child.

While attending one of the New York theaters a short time ago Mr. Coburn noticed a young man who appeared and began singing in a rich baritone voice. The face and features seemed very familiar, but the voice he knew not. Looking at the program, to his utter surprise he read, "Arthur Samson." Not the little boy as he knew him, when in knee pants he climbed the gallery stairs and nightly thrilled the hearts of hundreds as he sang from above, but instead a young man with a tone and quality of voice ability.

Remembering the question so often asked him, Mr. Coburn immediately arranged an interview, in consequence of which, he once again offers the much asked for little singer, not as the little boy who responded nightly to encores that thundered from pit to dome, but a young man of rich powerful voice which still retains all the sweetness and beauty as of old, together with a volume which nature has been kind in bestowing as the years have brought manhood to "The little boy who used to sing in the gallery."

Runs a Hotel.

"I believe in doing business on a cash basis," remarked one of the party.

"So do I," said another. "I believe the old rule, 'Pay as you go,' is a good one."

"It's good enough in some lines," said the man with a two-pound diamond in his scarf, "but over the desk in my office I have a sign saying, 'Pay before you go.'"

"I should think that was demanding too much," said the first man.

"Not at all." "I run a hotel."

OUT OF EUROPE

THE BLOOD RED TURK WILL HAVE TO MOVE SOON.

England Is Preparing to Leave Him to the Mercies of the Powers.

(London Cablegram.)

The Dardanelles itself is a little over forty-three miles long and is from three to four miles wide, but at the narrowest part is not more than 1,000 yards across. This is at a point guarded by Chanak Kalesi Castle, where huge chains are used to bar the passage. The strait connects the Sea of Marmora with the Aegean and is supposed to be the key of the Turkish capital.

Abdul Hamid's days as a European monarch are believed to be numbered. An agitation now is being conducted in Great Britain in favor of the withdrawal of what up to now has been the keystone of England's foreign policy—the veto against the advance of the Russian empire to Constantinople. The Spectator, the great British political weekly, has joined the agitation, and it has come to be almost a rule in British politics that measures supported by the Spectator are bound sooner or later to become accomplished facts.

Like Monroe Doctrine.

For generations Great Britain has upheld the integrity of Turkey through a fear that if any European power seized the sultan's country England's sea route to India via the Suez canal would be endangered in time of war. The integrity of Turkey has been to the government of India what the Monroe doctrine is to the United States, and the sultan has relied on the necessity of England to support his throne as his only strong hold on his European possessions.

Now, however, the new Anglo-Japanese alliance is a guarantee of the safety of India, and Englishmen are preparing to give up their objection to Russian occupation of Turkey. England realizes that Russia within the next few years must have warm water seaports, and if these are not obtained in Turkey, they will be on the Persian gulf, which is too uncomfortably near India, even with the Anglo-Japanese alliance in being, for England's complete tranquility.

Fear of an Alliance.

Another reason for the startling change in England's near Eastern policy is the fear of a strong alliance between Russia and Germany. The dearest desire of Englishmen at present is to weaken Germany and to destroy the growing intimacy between the czar and the kaiser. Germany is now the predominant power in Constantinople, and the kaiser is very ambitious to maintain his influence in the Turkish capital, for German capital is heavily invested in Asia Minor, and Germans have come to regard Asia Minor as the place for their next colonial venture. If England withdraws her objection to the Russian flag floating over Constantinople, the only bar to the slow march on Turkey would be German ambition, and an apple of discord thus would be thrown between the czar and kaiser which would lead to the severance of the strong ties of friendship that now bind the two monarchs together.

England's statesmen as yet have not declared openly that they intend to abandon their anti-Russian policy in Turkey, for the decision is so momentous a one that the British government must be sure Englishmen as a whole favor the move before they take the final step.

Lansdowne Favors It.

It is known, however, that Lord Lansdowne regards the suggestion with favor, and it is believed that it will not be long before a public announcement is made which will indicate how the undercurrents are moving.

The sultan has been informed by the Turkish ambassador in London of the new direction England is considering taking in the near East, and there is consternation in Yildiz Kiosk. Abdul Hamid is helpless, and can do nothing to stop the inevitable Muscovite advance into Turkey, once England's support of his rule vanishes. When that occurs the sick man will be moved back into Asia, and Europe no more will know a prophet of Mahomet.

ONE MORE CHANCE

FOR LEGAL VOTERS TO REGISTER BEFORE THE ELECTION.

The Provision of the Law Granting This Chance and the Days Therefore.

The law governing the supplemental registration is as follows:

"Any person entitled to register who was necessarily absent from the city of his residence during the days allowed for registration herein, or who was ill during said time, or who was unable to attend the place of registration on account of the sickness of some named member of his family, may have his name placed upon the registry for the precinct in which he lives, by attending the county clerk's office on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday preceding the November election in each year, and making affidavit before the clerk showing the facts required to be stated in the registry and showing the absence or sickness referred to. Any person present in the county clerk's office may challenge the right of any voter to register under this section, and thereupon the county clerk shall examine such voter and any witness who may be offered, under oath, and shall hear and determine the question of his right to register. The duties herein imposed upon the county clerk may be performed by his deputy and he may administer oaths under this law. No fee is charged for registration under this section.

Worse Than No Excuse.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Drunkenness as a defense for murder can be reduced to the plain statement that a drunken man bent on commission of crime is as dangerous to the individual against whom his efforts are directed as is the man who is sober. If the courts are to take as argument for acquittal the work of a man charged with felony that he is irresponsible because it was committed while he was drunk the possibilities are dangerous. What is to prevent every deliberate murderer from hiding behind this defense, as so many of them have hidden behind the ruling of a court that there is emotional insanity? Is it not possible, if one man is acquitted of crime or his sentence is made nothing more than a few years' confinement because the crime was an act done while he was under the influence of liquor, that it will serve to increase the number of felonies of that character?

BIG DEFICIT

IN SIGHT THROUGH CONDUCT OF THE POSTAL SERVICE.

Indications Are That the Sum Will Reach $18,500,000—Big Increase Over Last Year.

(Washington Telegram.)

Estimates made at the department indicate that the postal deficit this year will be about $18,500,000. It was $14,350,000 during the last fiscal year. People directly and indirectly interested in the question of carrying the mails for the government are already bestirring themselves, for in certain quarters the suggestion has been made that inasmuch as the government will have to take steps to stop the big leaks that cripple its resources, it might be a good idea to cut down the amounts that are annually voted the railways and steamship and steamboat companies. It has been pointed out that the rates paid the companies are just as high as they were ten or more years ago. But the question is also being asked, who will have the nerve to buck against the companies. Will the move be made by President Roosevelt, or Secretary Shaw assume such a responsibility?

Meanwhile the annual expenditures for the extension of the free rural delivery system are increasing with amazing rapidity. It will not be long before this service will call for a yearly appropriation of not less than $25,000,000. No one possessed of ordinary gumption thinks for a moment that any but a reckless congressman would take the initiative in trying to curtail a service that is such a wonderful convenience in nearly every district in the Union except the Eleventh Kentucky, which hasn't yet had a route put in operation. Apparently free rural delivery will be increased rather than decreased.

The railway and steamboat companies are getting about $40,000,000 a year out of the government for carrying the mails. If a fight is made on these companies there will be lively times here next winter, for this, in addition to the rate question, would still further complicate matters.

People who want to see some of this "pie" taken away from the companies insist that the greater part of the money spent for transporting the mails by rail is nothing short of a subsidy. It is a noteworthy fact, however, that about the only contract that is fought vigorously each year is the contract for the fast mail between Boston and New Orleans, and the main objection is against the section of the country south of Washington. The men who try to eliminate the appropriation every year overlook much larger contracts in the Middle West and on the Pacific slope.

Mr. Spooner of Tennessee, the ranking Democrat on the House Postoffice Committee, has a tussle each session with the latter question, and doubtless he will be pretty busy during the next session, for the postal situation is one that is apt to be most carefully considered in the Congress to assemble in December.

What Gives a City a Bad Name.

(New York Post.)

However discouraged the outlook for better government in this city for the next four years, it is gratifying and encouraging to note that the movement for reformed municipal administration goes on apace elsewhere. The Philadelphia City party, endorsed by the Democrats, is vigorously at work to elect its candidate for sheriff, while Mayor Weaver and his counsel, James Gay Gordon, are bringing the grafters to book. In Denver, the ministers, having closed up public gambling, have banded together to suppress the flaunting vice which disgraces the city. In Kansas City a similar movement is well under way. In a dozen different cities, in fact, there is reform activity of one kind or another—as in Louisville, for instance, where there is now a City Club, patterned after the New York organization, as are the City Clubs of Philadelphia and Chicago. The aim in Louisville as elsewhere is to insist upon a business administration. People now realize that a corrupt city government not only demoralizes a city, and gives it a bad name abroad, but affects its business interests and retards its growth.

Gives One the Chills.

A reasonable lie will do, but when a man talks about sliding down an icicle so fast that the friction set his pants on fire, it's past bearing.

GIBSON GIRL CREATOR WILL DRAW NO LONGER.

MASTERFUL PEN LAID ASIDE AT COST OF $65,000 A YEAR TO GRATIFY ARTIST'S AMBITION TO ACHIEVE SUCCESS IN COLORS—WILL STUDY IN EUROPE.

Charles Dana Gibson will draw no more in black and white. The originator of "the Gibson Girl" wants to enter a new field, and in November he will sail for Europe to study art. As a friend expresses it, "he has bought his freedom," and, realizing "that he has reached his limit in black and white," he has decided upon this step. The cost of Mr. Gibson's freedom will be about $65,000 a year, the amount of income that he will sacrifice.

"My mind is made up," Mr. Gibson said, as he stood at the door of his Carnegie Hall studio. "I have done what I set out to do in my chosen sphere, and now I am free to do the work I want to do. When I sail in November with my wife and children I will be virtually on vacation. I do not mean by this that I shall be idle. On the contrary, I will be very busy, but I will be following my own ideals, and not working to order."

"For six months I have been working in colors, and I find that I cannot continue to draw in line and give the time I want to give to painting. In that I am able to do as I please I esteem myself most fortunate. I may be abroad a year. I may remain two years, or three, I do not know. I have not mapped out the minor details of the move I have decided upon. I will stay just as long as I feel that I am approaching more nearly to the ideals I have set up in my heart. I want to reach the limit of my possibilities in color."

"First, I will go to Spain. After a time in that country I will visit Italy, and from Italy I will go to France. I know that I will not return to America before next summer, but I will certainly visit my home then, and if I continue my studies abroad I will get back once a year at least."

"Have you chosen the masters under whom you will study?" Mr. Gibson was asked.

"I have not. There is plenty of time for that."

That Mr. Gibson is thoroughly in earnest and that the step he has taken in refusing to renew the contracts that bring him in anywhere from $65,000 to $75,000 a year is the result of no sudden whim, but the offspring of desires long cherished, was proved by his every word and gesture.

"There's nothing more for me to tell you," he said, when he had made the bare announcement that he meant to go abroad to study art. "I've simply come to a point where I have enough to take care of my family and educate my children, and I feel that if I can do better work in broader fields by giving a few years to study I can do so."

"Will your friends see nothing of your work while you are abroad?" he was asked.

"That depends," he replied. "As I told you, I am not to be idle, but am going to do the work I want to do. If anybody wants the work I want to do, I assure you I will be very glad of it. If nobody wants it, then I am afraid there won't be much of it seen for a while."

Mr. Gibson talked with the unaffected happiness of the schoolboy who has passed his "exams" in the preparatory school and is about to enter college. It is said that he has been drawing $25,000 a year from Collier's, $20,000 from Life, and that the royalties from the books of sketches that he published ever year were at least $20,000.

In last week's issue Collier's Weekly printed this editorial:

"It seems almost incredible that we should be bidding Mr. Gibson farewell; it seems unbelievable that this, his tenth, should be his last book of sketches, and that the present issue should be the last 'Gibson number' that we may propose to our readers. Yet it is all true. Mr. Gibson is going abroad. He is going to study art. The master goes to the Old World to learn from other masters. It was three years ago that Collier's made a four year contract with Mr. Gibson. His drawings have been appearing in these pages regularly ever since. We believed they would continue to appear for a long time, for another year at least. But Mr. Gibson has become convinced that he has done all that lies within him in the sphere that has made him famous."

In the same issue was an article by Robert W. Chambers, entitled "Ave Attue Vale, Gibson." The article quotes a letter from a friend of Mr. Gibson, regarding his decision which says:

"A little over a week ago, on Gibson's return from Dark Harbor, I had luncheon with him, and, although I have known him fairly well for five or six years, and have always liked him, I never before had such an opportunity of seeing his real self."

"For twenty years, he said, he has been working to get in the position in which he finds himself today. During that time he may have appeared to many of his friends to have been working with money as too immediate a master, but he has now bought his freedom, has put aside enough to take care of his family and educate his children, and now has determined to burn all his bridges and set out with his schoolbooks under his arm to study art in Europe. He is filled with the freshness and enthusiasm of a boy about it, and plans a year in Spain, a year in France, and a year in Italy; as he describes it, to let every influence play upon him. He does not know what his medium will be or how long he will be in the primary class learning the alphabet, but he believes enough in himself, in his capacity for hard work and study, to be willing to make a big bet, as he expresses it, that he will win out. His whole attitude—realization that he has reached his limit in black and white, that while he might continue to make money he would do so at a sacrifice of his artistic self-respect—and the picture it gave me of his manliness and self-restraint during the past twenty years, has increased my respect for him a hundredfold."

"It is hard, at this distance, to make clear what a fine thing I think he is doing, or to describe the fine admixture of humility and pride with which he leaves behind what for most men would have been a satisfying success, and starts, when nearly forty, on an absolutely unknown road. Quite independent of what the results may be, I think it is an inspiring example, and if this hasty note conveys any of the warmth of my appreciation of it will not have been altogether useless."

"I suppose he has," was the reply, "except that I don't begin to deserve the compliments he pays me."

Mr. Gibson is a native of Roxbury, Mass., where he was born in 1867. The "Gibson Girl" achieved a place for herself as soon as she made her bow to the public. Among his sketches those depicting "The Education of Mr. Pipp," "The Americans," "A Widow and Her Friends," and "The Special Ladder," has been most successful.

To that list of left-handed artists may be added Mr. F. H. Townsend, the deft draughtsman in black and white, who has lately become art editor of Punch. But Mr. Townsend is one of the "semi-left-handed." And of these there are more than you might suppose. Many of us, on watching ourselves, will find that on this or that occasion we use the left hand when the right would be expected. Mr. Townsend draws with his left hand, but he deals cards with his right. This writer, being in all other respects right-handed, deals cards with the left. The real equality between the hands would probably be established from many experiences.—London Chronicle.

WOMEN'S NEGLECT SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY

Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, leucorrhoea. These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result. The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Kate McDonald, of Woodbridge, N. J., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham: I think that a woman naturally desires to make her troubles known to the public, but restored health has meant so much to me that I cannot help from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

"For a long time I suffered untold agony with a uterine trouble and irregularities, which made me a physical wreck, and no one thought I would recover, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me, and made me well and strong, and I feel it my duty to tell other suffering women what a splendid medicine it is."

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

THE VICINITY

PROWLING THIEF MURDEROUSLY ASSAULTS A RESIDENT OF FULTON.

The Hay Stack Murder Sensation of Mayfield Bobs Up Once More—Other Notes.

(Fulton Leader, 23d.)

We are elatedly informed that $300 was placed in the Hickman bank Saturday as a supplementary reward to the $500 offered by the commonwealth for the apprehension of Emmet Roach's assassin, making a total of $800.

Yesterday morning at 8 o'clock at his home near the Normal College, Dudley Newton, a well respected young man of South Fulton, died of paralysis following a prolonged illness of typhoid fever. The deceased had been married but a short time and his death comes as a great shock to his bereaved wife and relatives.

Last night about 6 o'clock Mr. G. H. Bransford, one of Fulton's most prominent citizens, was waylaid, knocked in the head and robbed in the back yard of his home in East Fulton and left unconscious from a terrible wound which his assailant inflicted upon the back of his head with a brick. Mr. Bransford was just returning from feeding some pigs and was but a few steps from his back porch when he was struck down by the miscreant and his pockets rifled of all their contents. It was not until 30 minutes later that an old negro man, who does chores on the place, was passing through the yard and stumbled upon the prostrate form of his employer, who had bled profusely and was to all appearances dead.

After being removed to the house, physicians were sent for and upon examination pronounced the wounded man badly hurt, but not enough to cause great alarm. Mr. Bransford is resting better today and said that he had only a few dollars in his pockets at the time of the robbery.

(Mayfield Monitor, 23d.)

Mr. J. Festus Gary and Miss Ruth Malone were united in marriage at Chapel Hill Sunday afternoon, the pastor, Rev. A. S. Castleberry, performing the ceremony.

Mr. Lester Usher, son of Esq. J. W. Usher, and Miss Lillian Alexander, among the most prominent young people in the Farmington section, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Alexander, Sunday afternoon.

The remains of Frank Young, who was killed in Tennessee last Friday, were brought to Mayfield at midnight Saturday night, and were buried at the cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Frank Young was about seventeen years of age, and was raised in this county, his parents residing near Hopewell church, east of town. He fell from a train.

It is said that there will be some startling developments in the straw stack murder case before many days, as information from a reliable direction has promised such. Sunday night the officer at Kottawa telephoned to Chief McNutt that a man in that town had manifested his desire to give out some valuable information about Mayfield's most mysterious murder and Chief McNutt told the officer to question the man and find out what he knew. The man desirous of telling something of the murder was in Mayfield at the time and is supposed to know more than has ever been told. The chief will look into the matter at once.

(Mayfield Messenger, 23d.)

Mr. Louis Royd, in the eastern part of the county had the misfortune of losing his twin babies within the past few days.

It was reported here today that Dr. D. P. Stanford and Dr. Lamplins engaged in a fight at Milburn. The difficulty came up over a telephone. Dr. Lamplins was considerably cut on the right side, below the stomach, by Dr. Stanford. Both are prominent citizens of Milburn and the affair created quite a good deal of excitement.

Woman's Superiority.

Prof. Chamberlain, of Clark University, has figured out that women have a whole lot more ability than men. Following is his little list:

"As an actor she has greater ability and more frequently shows it."

"She is noticeably better in adaptability."

"She is much more charitable—in money matters."

"Under reasonable opportunities she is more gifted at diplomacy."

"She has great genius in politics."

"She more commonly has executive ability."

"Her hearing is more acute."

"Her imagination is greater."

"Her intuition is greater."

"Her memory is better."

"Her patience is greater."

"Her preceptions are more rapid."

"She has greater religious devotion."

"Her instinct for sacrifice is greater."

"She bears pain more heroically."

"Her sympathy is greater."

"She has greater tact."

"She has more acute taste."

"She has greater vitality."

"She has more fluency in the lower forms of speech."—Pittsburg Gazette.

IT WAS THRILLING

A DARING TEXAN IN RICKETY AEROPHONE GOES BALLOONING.

Drawn by Fast Moving Tug He Has to Slacken Speed and Apparatus Settles in Water.

New York, Oct. 23.—In the North river, off Seventieth street, yesterday afternoon, 2,000 New Yorkers saw one of the most thrilling spectacles in the history of ballooning.

From the open roadway leading to the dock, after half a dozen ludicrous failures, a rickety, creaking, fragile aeroplane rose into the air as if propelled from the muzzle of a cannon. To the centre, enmeshed in piano wire, girders and guys and a work of frail bamboo poles, clung the aeronaut, C. K. Hamilton, a young Texan. With hands and legs outstretched like a giant monkey, man and machine went up, propelled by nothing, but drawn with a rope attached to the stern bitts of a tugboat, which far out in the river, was heading down stream as fast as its kicking screw could send it.

Like a Monkey.

The throng ashore held its breath. The aeroplane sheered and rocked like a boy's kite in a gale. One hundred, two, three hundred feet it soared, teaking and cracking. No spider in a broken web ever strove more desperately to hold for a few minutes of life than did Hamilton.

As the machine dived to the right, the pale-faced lad in the meshes of the aeroplane jumped to the left, and vice versa. Not an instant, from the ground until it began slowly to settle into the waters of the river did that frantic battle for equilibrium and life in the aeroplane cease. Voices that had cheered this daring aeronaut at the first dart into the air were stifled. Dozens of women turned from the sight as Hamilton waved in and out of his cage with the agility of a frightened monkey.

Had to Slow Down.

When the aeroplane had reached a point estimated at 350 feet, a ferry boat got in the course of the tug and compelled that craft to veer up stream. That left the cranky thing in the air without propelling power, and it gradually settled. As the rope became slack it fell slowly with birdlike, swinging motion from left to right into the river. Launches, sailing boats, tugs, row boats and yachts made for the aeroplane and rescued the Texan.

"I got away with it," were his first words, "but I'll never know just how I did it."

"It was the most exciting experience I have had in five years of ballooning, and I want no more of it."

Many of those who saw yesterday's spectacle, declared they would never look at another of its character.

Cannot as Czar of the House.

(St. Louis Republic.)

Ex-Speaker Joseph G. Cannon of the fifty-eighth congress is not yet elected speaker of the fifty-ninth. His friends take it for granted that he will be, and as no other Republican candidate for the office has yet appeared, they may be right.

But if the majority in the new House of Representatives desires to exercise its constitutional right of voting on bills without boss dictation, it will reject Mr. Cannon or put a curb on the usurpations of control over the House which have characterized every Republican speaker since Reed was put into the chair at the beginning of Harrison's administration.

The extent of Mr. Cannon's usurpation is pointedly illustrated in a Washington special to the Richmond Dispatch which recites that President Roosevelt is heartily in favor of an adequate appropriation for the Jamestown Exposition and will strongly recommend it in his forthcoming message, that two-thirds of the House will vote favorably on a bill making such appropriation if they are allowed to vote on it at all; but that Cannon has always been hostile to the exposition and it is feared his opposition will defeat it.

The fear is well founded. Under the Reed rules, which Henderson and Cannon have made worse, the speaker and his committee on rules are masters of the House, and more powerful than the president. The majority of the House is powerless so long as it consents to wear the speaker's collar, and allows him to gag it by tightening the collar whenever it pleases him to do so.

It was never intended in the organization of our government that the speaker should be the whole House, and the voters of the several congressional districts do not choose representatives for the purpose of having their free action nullified by his autocratic dictum.

We shall see sorry spectacles during the coming session if the House reenacts the Reed-Henderson-Cannon rules.

It is announced from New York that the bar of the city is almost solidly for Jerome for re-election as district attorney.

President Yesterday Visited Several Points on His Tour.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24.—When the president left here this morning to continue his tour of the state of Alabama, a busy day confronted him. His program for the day included a visit to Tuskegee, the home of the famous institute for negroes, a return trip to Montgomery and a visit to Birmingham, at all of which places speeches had to be made.

At 6 o'clock this evening the president's train left Birmingham for Little Rock, Ark.

Yesterday morning Mr. James Weille received a letter from Mr. Albert Webster, of Linton, Ind., who stated that the homing pigeons released here in Paducah Sunday by Mr. Weille, arrived at the Webster home in four hours and eighteen minutes. This is a good record, considering it is nearly 200 miles from here to Linton. Mr. Webster also sent Mr. Weille a pair of the fine pigeons and made him a present of same. Their pedigree accompanied them, and showed they come from fast flying stock.

Money in Timber Lands.

Fortunes have been made and can easily be made today by buying Arkansas rich river bottom lands, heavily covered with timber, at a nominal price, holding the land for a few years and then selling the timber at twice the price the land and timber both cost and then have the land cleared and sell it for five times the original purchase price and sometimes ten times the cost. We have a proposition of this kind in 1,600 acres of land in Arkansas at only $3.50 per acre. One-third cash, balance 1 and 2 years, at 6 per cent. This land when clear will rent for $5.00 per acre per year. Full particulars on request.

Butcher John Theobald has notified the police that several mornings ago he hung his vest on the hook behind his market house stall and proceeded to sell his meats, when on turning around someone had stolen his vest, gold watch, chain and all.

Mayor Dunne, of Chicago, is going to submit the question of saloons on Sunday to a vote of the people. He says he will abide by the decision of the people on the question.
